Beyond this, the real risk with AR graffiti apps is their ability to collect information from social media and sites such as Glassdoor. It's easy to see then how combining opinions from disgruntled employees may be especially damaging if combined with a graffiti attack, where this information is used as part of the defacing.

For the underdog to take a stand. For artists to step beyond convention…. and street, urban art and graffiti is the best proof of this. You don’t even need to be considered a ‘legitimate’ artist; don’t need to have thousands of fans, have a huge social media presence, be taken seriously by galleries or be picked up by an artist agency.
